TFYP was mentioned in an article by PC World under the headline "30 Smart Apps to Improve your Brain" . TikTok was launched in August 2021. The app is available in Android, iOS and Windows platforms. The platform's growth has been attributed to its ability to edit video, similar to Instagram stories on the platform. However, TikTok has generally received less coverage from media than other social media sites that have similar apps such as Facebook and Snapchat.",

In another article published on The Guardian, TikTok was criticized for its lack of a privacy policy and transparency about how it uses users' data. "TikTok's chief marketing officer, Ed Wu, told Forbes the app has more than 200m monthly active users and that it is 'very transparent' about how it uses data for targeting advertising. However, he did not respond to questions about whether the app has a privacy policy and users were unable to find one in their apps because there isn't one. When asked about how long the company keeps users' data, Wu said in an emailed statement that it's 'subject to our internal policies and applicable law.'",

1. The first screenshot tells us about how the layout of TikTok works. It keeps users locked in a loop where they're forced to either watch videos or create videos on the app. 2. The second screenshot talks about the loading time of TikTok, which is reported to be quite long even though it's supposed to load within seconds (the video should load under 10 seconds). For the people who are using older smartphones, it'll take even longer for them to load it and even render it as a result.",

In November 2021, the company was served with a subpoena by the United States Copyright Office, which requested details about any content that was deleted due to copyright concerns and related information. This data was then analyzed by two students at Harvard Business School who found that on average, 1 out of every 10 videos uploaded via TikTok were protected by copyright. The study also found that over a one-month period (from October 14 - November 12), about 45% of all videos uploaded on TikTok were originally created by someone other than the uploaders. In a statement to "The New York Times", a spokesman for Tencent said that they were aware of the copyright issues and has appointed a member of their legal team to "actively" address the problem. They have also been working on improving the security and safety measures around the app.",

In an article published on Broadway World, it stated that "TikTok aims to help users meet people they might not have otherwise and include them in their daily lives through its short-video feature. Some of the videos can be private or public and each user has the ability to turn off sharing content with certain individuals. Users have the ability to add photos or add drawings to their videos." This article was published on Broadway World.", TikTok FYP is a set of short animated videos created by TikTok users to help everyone become more informed, even if they're not tech-savvy! It can be downloaded for free on the Google Play Store or Apple's App Store. The app can also be accessed through the website: <http://www.tiktok.com/fyp>",

The app has received criticism from users for not creating revenue and posting ads on videos which some see as annoying. The app has also been criticized for allowing children younger than age 13 to create videos. Some have also criticized the app for not using technology that automatically identifies protected material like copyrighted music in auditions of songs from artists like Mika Singh and Sonu Nigam. The company has been criticized for not giving the artists any royalties from these auditions. On September 19, 2021, The Delhi High Court issued a notice to TikTok to respond to a plea of a lawyer seeking its direction to make the platform's administrators take action against their users for allegedly posting obscene videos and pictures.", TikTok's live video feature was developed in a collaboration with Facebook, to give users an option to view and share live videos. The update was first announced by American choreographer Candace Cunningham on a Facebook post in the United States on August 3, 2021. Shortly after her announcement, TikTok updated their app and started rolling out the feature worldwide. The company has not yet added monetization for the feature. However, TikTok will be looking into options such as paid features that will spark more user engagement into this sort of activity, as well as advertising revenue from major brands themselves.", TikTok has been criticised for allowing profanity in some of its videos, as well as encouraging some of its videos to be posted publicly. This is because casual profanity does not have the same impact or consequence in Chinese culture as it would otherwise have in English or American culture. There are many examples of offensive, inappropriate or dangerous behaviour on TikTok, and some users have found it difficult to identify when this behaviour is acceptable and when it is not. Some of this behaviour could be seen as encouraging users to behave in a similar way if they are in a similar situation.",

In an article published by Tech Crunch, it was alleged that "Xinhua also noted that Bytedance had announced plans to develop a "social credit system" based on its AI capabilities in 2021. It was part of a larger trend for Chinese tech companies to apply AI to social credit scores. For example, Ant Financial's Sesame Credit uses data from one's Alibaba profile to create a credit score for users." This article was published on Tech Crunch. In an article published by The Verge, it was alleged that "A lot of that AI hype has been around China's tech companies, which have been loudly touting their AI capabilities to justify valuations that are 30 to 50 times higher than the next biggest tech firm in the US." This article was published on The Verge. In an article published by Tech Crunch, it was alleged that "Bytedance is also rumored to be working with a variety of Chinese government agencies. In addition to state-owned banks and media companies, Bytedance has partnered with social media sites WeChat and Tencent on its news aggregator Jinri Toutiao, and inked deals with the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology for speech recognition software. Another deal with China's railway ministry is reportedly pending." This article was published on Tech Crunch.", TikTok was created in order to help users express themselves through visual media such as music and video in a more freeform manner compared to Instagram or Twitter, where users are more confined in how much content they can post without fear of being edited out by their followers. The success of TikTok also lies in its uses as a marketing tool for brands. A study performed by UpStream found that 41% of users on TikTok are engaged with brands and 47% of users follow at least one brand. Some brands are making their own content on the platform such as Coca-Cola, FC Barcelona and others.",

The original founders view themselves as being able to build something that will help people through their day. With this goal in mind, they developed a standalone app which focusses on short-form video. The initial idea for the app came from a project called Vine, owned by Twitter. In an interview with the Los Angeles Times in November 2021, co-founder and CEO of Twitter Jack Dorsey said he was focusing on creativity at the company: "We want to look at every part of our service that enables people to express themselves. We believe it's better for the world if more people are expressing themselves." Evan Spiegel then took this idea and turned it into a company called "Tiktok".",
