TikTok has a number of features that require them to be paid for if they are part of the package provided by a subscription video service. This includes the ability for people who have subscribed to TikTok's video service to access a number of special features as well as the ability for them not only to find out more about the videos that other users are watching on their channel but also view videos (in addition, they can also follow other users which is clearly part of being able to view other people's content). However, the most notable feature that people have criticized for being charged for is the ability to post videos to a channel (which should be free given that it is not available outside of a subscription). Some people have criticized TikTok for charging people who wish to post their own videos as well as trying to prevent users from posting any content on their platform without paying for it. The following is a screenshot of an advertisement which appears on TikTok's own website:",

TikTok is owned by the Chinese company ByteDance, which also owns the short video platform Musical.ly. Many people have noted the similarities between the two platforms, with some stating that TikTok is simply a clone of its older sibling. This sentiment has led some people to ask whether or not TikTok was simply a copycat app that was created in an attempt to gain success from Musical.ly's early popularity in China and elsewhere in Asia. Some have even gone as far as to suggest that Musical.ly was the app that inspired TikTok. The following is an image of the two apps side by side, which clearly highlights some of their similarities.", Musical.ly has an analytics dashboard that can be viewed via a web browser, and it also offers an API for developers to use data gathered by the app in their own apps and services. Musical.ly went live on the European market on 25 September 2021 under the name Musical.ly Alternatives, with a broader focus on Musical.ly's provided content being a secondary concern.",

In October 2021, Postmates announced that it would remove TikTok from their platform after pressure from users who don't want to see ads in front of their favorite moments. The move was seen by some as a step towards eliminating advertising on TikTok.", Musical.ly won Best Social app in 2021 at the Internet Awards. Musical.ly was featured on "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon" on November 25, 2021. Musical.ly was also featured in the fifth episode of season seven of "Shark Tank", and got an offer for $30 million from Robert Herjavec who eventually walked out after the company refused to sign a contract with him.
